

Off to Market

Here is a picture of the entrance to the old cattle market in Newcastle upon Tyne. It is decorated with a stone carving of a bull's head. This is because cattle and other livestock were once sold there.

There were many markets in the city over the years, all selling different things. Here is a list of some of them. Choose one of the markets from the list and in the space provided draw a decorative entrance to the market.

Try to decorate it with things which symbolise the type of goods being sold there.

Fish Market
Flower Market

Milk Market
Butter Market

Herb Market
Poultry Market
